AIML stands for computing language. it's an XML dialect for creating tongue software agents.

AIML contains a collection of rules which define the conversational capabilities of the chatbot. it's used with a linguistic communication Understanding (NLU) processor which takes AIML rules to investigate and reply to the text queries asked via the chatbot. The more rules we add in AIML – the more intelligent the chatbot is.

- AIML based chatbots come under the rule-based chatbots category, however, some level of self-learning feature is feasible.
- AIML is that the language to make a brain for chatbots.
- One chatbot application can have multiple sets of AIML and might behave differently.
